SpokAnimal & Pets for the Elderly

SpokAnimal is now a proud partner of Pets for the Elderly, a national program helping connect older adults with loving companion pets.

SpokAnimal is honored to be one of 53 shelters nationwide partnering with Pets for the Elderly to make these connections possible. Through this grant, we can help cover adoption fees for adults aged 60+ on low incomes, making it easier to welcome a new best friend into their lives.

Because here's the truth: Loneliness is one of the biggest challenges facing older adults – and pets can make a world of difference. They bring comfort, companionship, routine and unconditional love.

A few things to know about the grant:

- Available for adopters aged 60+ on low incomes
- Applies to cats and dogs (excluding pets aged 8 weeks to 6 months)
- Offered on a case-by-case basis

If you or someone you know could benefit from a little extra companionship, we'd love to help you find your perfect match. Drop us a line at miracles@spokanimal.org.

DID YOU KNOW?

• Small businesses accounted for 65% of all net new jobs over the past 17 years.

• Small businesses employ 77 million Americans.

• 89% of consumers agree that independent businesses contribute positively to local economies.

• Residential neighborhoods served by a successful independent business district gained, on average, 50% more in home values than their citywide markets.

• Independent restaurants return more than two times as much money per dollar of sales than national restaurant chains.

• If independent businesses regain their 1990 market shares, it would create 200,000 new small businesses, generate nearly $300 billion in revenues and employ more than1.6 million Americans.

• If just half the U.S. employed population spent $50 each month in locally owned independent businesses, it would generate more than $42.6 billion in revenue.

• For every square foot a local firm occupies, the local economy gains $179 vs. $105 for a chain store.

SPOKANE VALLEY CITY COUNCIL
TUESDAY, MAY 5, 2026 | MEETING RECAP

This week's Spokane Valley City Council meeting began with an invocation, the pledge of allegiance and approval of the following meeting agenda. Councilmember Merkel was excused from the meeting.

General Public Comments

Each week, community members have an opportunity to address Councilmembers for up to three minutes during the General Public Comment period, either at the beginning or end of each meeting, either in person or via Zoom.

ACTION ITEMS

#1 – Second Reading: Ordinance 26-005 Virtual Currency Kiosks

Council discussed this topic previously on Jan. 20, 2026 and April 7, 2026. City staff and Spokane Valley Police Department (SVPD) Chief Dave Ellis spoke about cryptocurrency automated teller machines (ATMs), which allow peer-to-peer electronic cash transfers that bypass traditional financial institutions. Due to the rise in the use of virtual currency kiosks to commit fraudulent financial activity, both the Washington State Department of Financial Institutions and the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network have issued consumer alerts about virtual currency ATMs or kiosks. In June 2025, the City of Spokane unanimously passed an ordinance prohibiting these devices within its city limits.

A motion to approve Ordinance 26-005, adopting chapter 7.60 SVMC prohibiting Virtual Currency Kiosks in the City of Spokane Valley passed unanimously.

#2 – Second Reading: Ordinance 26-006 Opportunity Fund Code Text Amendment (CTA)

The Council discussed this topic on Oct. 28, 2025, Nov. 18, 2025 and April 28, 2026. The proposed code text amendments will permit utilization of Tourism Promotion Area (TPA) revenue for a "Tourism Opportunity Fund" and grant the TPA Commission administrative authority to review applications and award funding, pending City Council oversight, by placing the funding award on the next regularly scheduled consent agenda of City Council, or on the next available non-consent agenda if the funding award is time sensitive. At their Feb. 19, 2026, meeting, the TPA Commission reviewed the draft ordinance and unanimously recommended City Council's approval.

A motion to approve Ordinance 26-006 adopting amendments to Chapter 3.21 SVMC passed unanimously.

NON-ACTION ITEMS

#3 – Recap of 2026 State Legislative Session

The city's State Lobbyist, Briahna Murray, of Gordon Thomas Honeywell Government Relations, provided an overview of the 2026 legislative session and the Legislature's actions related to the Spokane Valley's 2026 budget requests, which included:

- Balfour Park Accessibility Amenities: Request $250,000/Appropriated $258,000
- Regional Request for Traffic Management Center: Request $1 million/Appropriated $1 million (one-time)
- Barker/I-90 Sullivan Trent: Continued advocacy to elevate visibility of projects and support FMSIB.

Ms. Murray noted that major themes of this session were response to federal actions, affordability and tax/budget reform. She said there is a legal challenge to the Millionaire Tax bill (SB 6346) which should be monitored as the bill could impact city sales tax revenue. Other outcomes of the city's policy priorities were reviewed, including housing affordability, local decision-making and fiscal management. SVPD Chief Dave Ellis reported on the impacts of two public safety bills that passed this session: SB 6002-Automated License Plate Readers and SB 5974-Law Enforcement Qualifications. The Council was asked to begin considering city legislative priorities for the upcoming 2027 session.

#5 – Parks and Recreation Summer Season Preview

Staff shared information about the Parks and Recreation Department's events and upcoming programs, including the park and meal program, youth summer camps, youth archery program, adult dance lessons, outdoor recreation events, outdoor recreation, therapeutic recreation services and outdoor movies at the park. Staff also previewed the pool operation schedule, summer aquatics programs and announced that, thanks to a continuing sponsorship by Numerica Credit Union, admission for open swim is free every Friday throughout the swim season once again this year, and Pool World is now sponsoring free swim on Sundays. Staff shared information about parks, specifically special events, park shelter reservations, sand volleyball and baseball field rentals, the Greenacres Community Garden and more.

#6 – 2026 Budget Amendment

The Council adopted the 2026 Budget on Dec. 9, 2025. Since that time, a number of events have occurred leading to the need for a budget amendment. Staff provided details of the changes to the nine funds affected. The result is a total revenue increase of $5,348,800 and total expenditure increase of $6,960,167. Of these increases, $1,950,000 reflects transfers between city funds. The Council reached consensus to move this forward to a motion at a future Council meeting.

OPERATION DOG TAG

OperationDogTag.org

My name is Arthur Lee Johnson and this is my dog Penny. I have severe combat PTSD. Before I got Penny and starting service dog training with Operation Dog Tag, I would sit inside my home and just try to survive. With this special training and Penny by my side, I am able to get out again and feel like living. Sometimes things aren't always easier, but Penny gives me the confidence needed to cope with situations without having an anxiety attack. Penny helps give me that confidence I need to function in society. Thanks to my Penny who is also my battle buddy, and the awesome training we are receiving from Joe Scheffer at Operation Dog Tag.

Sincerely, Arthur Lee Johnson

Fishing Magician

Dave Loughrie

Reach Dave @ www.FishingMagician.com or FishBoy@nwi.net "The Outdoor Insider"

I had a very fun time fishing this past week. I had a chance to fish for walleye, rainbow trout, brown trout and even caught a nice largemouth bass. I also visited my new boat partner, Mark's Marine in Hayden, Idaho, to talk about some new additions to the Thunder Jet Luxor being built in Clarkston, Washington, and that I will get a chance to see it at the factory.

It was great to get back over to Hayden, Idaho and visit my new boating partner, Mark's Marine. We met earlier this year and did a walk-through of a Thunder Jet Luxor at their dealership, to see the layout of the boat and talk about how it would be outfitted. We went through everything from the Mercury outboard motor package and Minn Kota bow mount electric. The boat would be set up with Garmin electronics, both at the helm and in a special box being built at the stern. It will have Scotty downriggers mounted on the gunnels. At first I was going to pass on the Garmin Live Scope, but after fishing on Drano Lake and seeing that the majority of the boats were using this type of electronics, I decided to add this to the boat, too. Both Aaron Thykeson and John Calder spent a lot of their time with me going over the details of the boat and introducing me to more of their service department and boat rigging people and other employees. Everyone made me feel very welcome at Mark's Marine. We are planning a trip to the Thunder Jet factory later this month. I can't wait!

At the same time I was going over to visit Mark's Marine, my friend James Lebow was going to be fishing at Waitts Lake, which is northwest of Spokane. They invited me to stop by and jump on his boat. I had heard of Waitts Lake and knew it was a great lake to fish for rainbow trout, brown trout, perch and largemouth bass. He and Tyler Berqum had rods already rigged up and we started trolling right after we left the dock in front of his campsite. They found that using gang trolls ahead of a Rooster Tail or crank bait worked pretty good and showed me how the rainbow and brown trout would attack these lures. There were a lot of small rainbow from the spring plant in the lake, but we did get few larger rainbow and brown trout, as well. I wanted to see what the bass fishing was like and brought a couple of rods with my favorite Brush Hog and lizards already attached. One of the first docks that we cast to produced a dandy largemouth. There is a public access launch on the lake, and I would like to try it again. This week's photo is of the bass I got at Waitts Lake.

My good friend Jim Passage has treated me to some exceptional fishing trips over the years. He has taken me to fly fish for steelhead on the Methow River several times, and in recent years to a private lake managed by Darc Knobel at the Desert Fly Angler in Ephrata. Jim still refers to the destination as Isaacs, and many know it as Back to the Wall. There are two lakes here that attract fly anglers. One is managed for large rainbow, which can be difficult to catch. The other has an abundance of rainbow that are smaller. What I mean is that a lucky angler may catch a trout weighing several pounds on the one lake, and on the other one we fished, we caught rainbow to 23 inches. Jim brings his small aluminum boat equipped with an electric motor and we trolled black, Wooly Bugger type flies. We were using 5 weight fly rods and most of the rainbow were in the 15- to 18-inch class, with a few that were two to three inches larger than that. Jim and I always enjoy this time together, along with catching these beautiful trout.

Dennis Beich wanted to give Moses Lake a try for walleye on Thursday. Neither of us had been on the lake yet and we figured it was about time to hit the north end. He recruited a local expert, Mike Lewis, and we ran up there. Typically, the walleye action starts in the shallows up here, and we wanted to get in on that. I had just put my second rod in the holder when it folded over. I had on something big! It turned out to be a whopper carp. That sort of set the stage for the day that was very slow and only interrupted by the occasional bullhead catfish. We trolled from the very top end on down the lake, passing a lot of water that we all had caught walleye in before, but nothing was happening. We finally picked up and ran to the flat above Connelly Park, where we saw a pretty good fleet of boats. We were trolling along here when Mike yelled at me, and I saw my rod loaded up. I set the hook and landed a 19-inch fish. That was the only one we got.

My wife is getting used to a new computer system at her work. That prompted me to talk about the frustrations that people have commented on about the new MyWDFW system through my Facebook page. As you know, this was the last year that people are able to get a paper version of their licenses, permits and catch record cards. She wondered how older residents, that either aren't that good at doing things on the computer or don't even have one, will be able to use it. I responded that they will have to ask their neighbor's children or their grandchildren to help! Kids make things like this look easy. When I was fishing on Drano Lake with Shane Magnuson and Buzz Ramsey, I got a look at how filling out the punch card on a smart phone worked. When Buzz landed a fish he opened the MyWDFW App and figured out how to enter his spring salmon on the Catch Record Card feature. He clicked through the prompts and got it done. I timed how long it took him to complete this and it was close to 60 seconds.

REAL ESTATE Trends & Advice

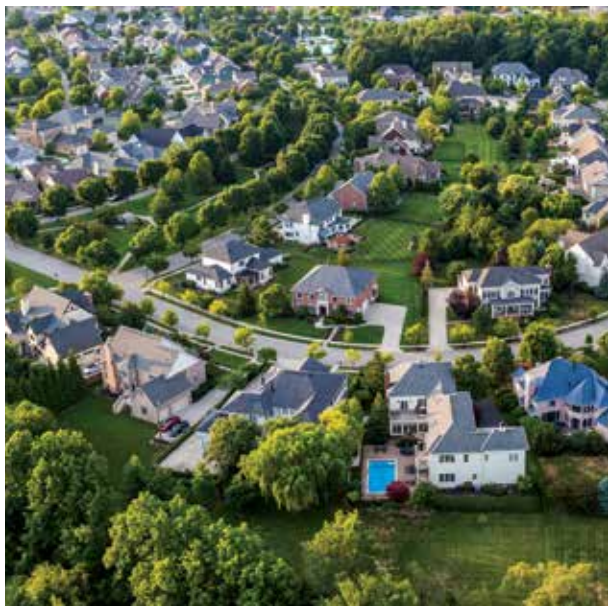
Real Estate Marketplace NW, Inc.
"From Spokane to the Canadian Border"

EXPENSIVE MISTAKES



A few years ago, a property owner became entangled in a legal mess that could have been avoided simply by getting guidance from a professional real estate advisor. They had sold a parcel of land with an owner contract in a "do-it-yourself" deal. After several years, the purchaser began struggling to make payments and then completely stopped sending them. Without seeking legal advice, the seller decided to start the process of taking the property back. They chose the easier and less expensive method by accepting a "deed in lieu of foreclosure," which simply means that the buyer signed the deed back over to the seller to avoid foreclosure on their record.

The problem with this simple legal maneuver was that the seller neglected to have a title search done prior to accepting the property back. Their desire to take the easy route would come back to haunt them. They were completely unaware that the buyer had encumbered the property with hundreds of thousands of dollars in junior liens, something a title search would have uncovered. The more lengthy and costly foreclosure process would have wiped the slate clean, and the seller would have regained the property free of all other encumbrances. This problem went undiscovered until they sold the property years later. During that sale, a title search revealed the troublesome liens. They were forced to pay off this significant liability prior to closing. What an expensive mistake!

In another local case, a couple purchased some acreage from a neighbor in another "do-it-yourself" deal. In this initial transaction, the seller did not create an access easement for the property. Because the buyers lived next door, they did not think they needed one, as they could access it from their adjoining property. About 15 years later, life circumstances changed, and the couple went their separate ways. In the divorce, one spouse was awarded the property, which had no legal access. Now unable to access it from the adjoining property, this owner was left without legal access. The solution was either to sell the property at a discount due to the lack of access and let the new owner deal with the problem, or to pay a neighbor a hefty price for an access easement.

Cutting corners can lead to expensive problems later, which can easily be avoided with some simple precautionary steps. Consult a real estate professional before starting down that road in order to avoid such pitfalls.

SPRING SPRINKLERS
Did you know that the best time of day to water plants is typically early in the morning, just after sunrise? This timing allows the water to soak into the soil before the heat of the day causes it to evaporate. This Make Your Life Better Hack brought to you by the Exchange

Three Garden Box Mistakes That Are Easy to Fix

A raised bed is an investment. Wood, soil, time, water, and a fence around it to keep the deer out runs $200 to $500 to set up and another $50 to $100 a year to maintain. For that money, the bed should be earning back as much produce as it can. Most local raised beds work at about half capacity because of three habits that are easy to change.

Mistake 1: Leaving the bed bare from October through April
After the last tomato comes off the vine, most home gardeners pull the plants and let the bed sit. Empty soil bakes in the late-summer sun, leaches nutrients through the wet fall, and compacts under snow. The bed comes back in spring lower in nutrients, weaker in structure, and ready for another bag of soil and another bag of fertilizer.
The fix is a cover crop. Hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas fix nitrogen the bed can use the following spring. Winter rye and oats add organic matter and prevent erosion. Seed in late August or early September after summer crops finish, water it in, let it grow through fall, and terminate it in early spring before planting. WSU Extension publishes a free fact sheet specifically for this region ("Cover Crops for Home Gardens East of the Cascades," publication FS117E) and a companion guide on planting and termination methods (FS119E), both downloadable from pubs.extension.wsu.edu. The Spokane County Master Gardener Plant Clinic at 222 N. Havana Street takes species and seed-source questions for free at 509-904-0747, open March through October (Monday to Thursday 9am to 3pm, Friday 9am to 1pm). Leaving the bed empty all winter is the most common avoidable mistake in this region, and the fix takes about an hour in early September.

Mistake 2: Growing one crop per bed per year
The standard approach is to plant tomatoes in May, harvest through August, and call it a season. That's one crop in a bed that could be growing three.
Cool-season crops thrive in Eastern Washington spring and fall but die in midsummer heat. Warm-season crops want July and August but won't survive a frost on either end. Stack them. Plant spinach, lettuce, peas, and radishes in late March or early April. Pull them in early June and replace with tomatoes, peppers, and basil. After the first hard frost takes the summer crops, plant a second round of cool-season greens (spinach, kale, arugula) for an October and November harvest. Or plant a cover crop. Either way, the bed produces continuously instead of working four months out of twelve.
The numbers that matter for Spokane County: peas and spinach in the ground around late March if the soil is workable, tomato and pepper transplants in around June 5 (May 15 is the average last frost per WSU, but soil temperature matters more for these crops than the calendar), fall greens seeded around August 1, cover crop seeded by September 15. A bed running on this schedule produces twice or more what a single-crop bed produces, on the same water and the same soil amendments.

Mistake 3: Treating containers like miniature raised beds
This one trips people up because containers look like small versions of garden boxes. They're not. A container in full Eastern Washington sun is essentially a solar oven with a plant in it. Black plastic pots in direct July sun routinely push soil temperatures past 130 degrees, which cooks roots, locks up nutrients, and kills the plant from the inside out before the leaves show any sign of trouble.
Three things help. Container size matters more than people think: anything under five gallons doesn't survive a real heat wave with most vegetables, and ten to fifteen gallons is a more honest minimum for tomatoes and peppers. Color matters: light-colored or terra cotta containers run noticeably cooler than black plastic, and a gardener who can't replace the pot can wrap the dark side in light cloth or shade it with a board during the hottest part of the day. And mulching matters. The bare soil surface in a container loses water to evaporation faster than an in-ground bed because the entire pot is exposed to wind and sun. A two-inch layer of bark, straw, or even shredded leaves cuts evaporation roughly in half and keeps the soil temperature down.
Watering more is the standard advice and it's not wrong, but it's incomplete. The container that's overheating doesn't have a water problem. It has a thermal problem. Fix the thermal problem and the water problem mostly fixes itself.

The Takeaway
Raised beds and containers reward attention more than they reward expense. The bed that gets a cover crop in September, three plantings between March and October, and shade for its containers in July outproduces the bed that gets twice the fertilizer and a fancy automatic watering kit. Most of what makes a productive home garden box happens in the things people skip.

PLANT VEGGIES

Daytime air temps are favorable; nighttime temps are getting warmer and so is the soil. Our last average frost date is May 15. Prepare your vegetable beds and get ready to plant tomatoes, root crops, leafy greens & more!

DIVIDE PERENNIALS

Now is a good time to divide perennials that have grown too large for their space or if you want to move plants around your garden. Depending on the plant, there are several ways to do this job.

NURTURE BENEFICIALS

Many insects and other small creatures are desirable to have in your garden. Take special care to provide food, shelter and water. Avoid using broad spectrum insecticides that kill even the good guys!

GRASS SEEDING TIP

Increase the odds that your grass seed will sprout & grow as desired by using a tool that you probably have in your kitchen right now - a broom! Running a broom over the seeds ensures that the seeds are more evenly distributed over the area & will also help push them farther down into the soil than would otherwise be achieved when spreading by hand or with a mechanical spreader. Refinishing an Old Deck: When It's Worth It and When It Isn't

The deck out back has seen better days. The boards are gray where they used to be brown, a couple of them are cupping in ways that catch your shoe at the wrong angle, and one of the railing posts wobbles enough that you've started warning guests about it. There are three ways to deal with this, separated by a factor of ten in cost. Picking the right one depends on a fifteen-minute inspection that almost nobody does.

The Screwdriver Test

The decision starts under the deck, not on top of it. Grab a flathead screwdriver and a flashlight and crawl under there. Press the screwdriver into the joists, beams, and posts at the spots most likely to fail: the tops of joists where water sits, the ends where they meet the ledger or rim, the bottom six inches of any post in or near concrete, and the ledger board itself.

Healthy wood resists the screwdriver. You should have to lean on it to get the tip in even a quarter inch. Rotten wood lets the screwdriver sink in with light pressure, and the deeper it goes, the worse the news. A quarter inch of soft surface is manageable. An inch is a problem. Four inches and the joist is structural in name only.

Pay particular attention to the ledger. The board that bolts the deck to the house is the failure point in roughly nine out of ten catastrophic deck collapses, and it's the easiest spot for water to wick in undetected behind siding. Probe its full length. If the screwdriver finds soft wood at the ledger, stop reading articles and start calling contractors.

Path One: Refinish Only

If the framing tests solid and the boards are in reasonable shape (no cracks wider than a pencil, no significant cupping, no soft spots), the deck needs cosmetic work, not structural work. Clean the deck, sand or strip the old finish, fix minor issues, apply new stain and sealer.

Cost runs $3 to $8 per square foot professional, less DIY. A 200-square-foot deck lands between $600 and $1,600. Penetrating oil stain lasts two to four years. Solid stain lasts four to six years but eventually peels and requires full stripping when it does. This is the right answer for most decks under ten years old that have just been neglected.

Path Two: Keep the Frame, Replace the Boards

If the framing is solid but the boards are cracked, splintering, cupped, or rotted at fastener locations, the boards come off and new ones go on while the structure stays. This is called resurfacing, and it costs $15 to $50 per square foot. New pressure-treated boards land at the low end. Cedar runs mid-range. Composite (Trex, TimberTech) sits at the high end and adds another decade or two before you have to think about decking again.

This is also the right time to upgrade two cheap details. Joist tape keeps water from collecting between board and joist, which is where most rot starts. Hidden fasteners eliminate the screw holes that let water reach the joist tops in the first place. Both upgrades together extend deck life by ten years or more.

Path Three: Full Rebuild

If the screwdriver found soft wood in the framing (especially the ledger, multiple joists, or posts), the deck is past the point where surface work makes sense. Demolition runs $5 to $15 per square foot. Rebuild from scratch runs $30 to $60 per square foot. A 200-square-foot rebuild lands around $7,000 to $12,000 plus demolition.

The temptation is to patch a couple of joists and hope. The rule of thumb in the trade is that once 20 percent of a joist's width is rotted, it no longer meets code for span and load and needs to be replaced. By the time multiple joists test soft, the framing is approaching end-of-life as a system.

The Eastern Washington Wear Pattern

UV at our elevation is harsh. Stains rated for five years in Ohio fade to gray in three here. Freeze-thaw cycles work fasteners loose, and a sunny April day (40 degrees overnight, 70 by afternoon) wedges water into every crack the wood developed last summer. The first thing that fails on most decks in this region isn't the framing or the boards. It's the finish. Refinish on a four-year cycle in this climate instead of the six-year cycle the can recommends, and the deck underneath stays serviceable a decade longer.

The Actual Decision

Spend fifteen minutes under the deck before spending five thousand dollars on top of it. The screwdriver tells you which path to take. Refinishing a structurally compromised deck means you've thrown away the cost of the refinish and still own a dangerous deck. Tearing down a deck that just needed a refinish means you've thrown away thousands. Neither mistake is necessary.

Why That $20 Hose Is About to Cost You $60

Let me paint you a picture, you're walking through your local big box store when suddenly you spot a brand spanking new 50' glorious green garden hose. And it's on sale for just $20! What a bargain, it's almost as if the store knew you needed to replace your old garden hose and they just happened to put this beauty in your path. I'll let you in on a little secret, the big box store did know you needed a new hose. How you ask? Well because they sold you the same 50' glorious green garden hose last spring, and if their calculations are right, then it's about time to replace last years hose.
That $20 great deal on a hose, isn't such a great deal when you remember that you can barely move the hose without it kinking, and undoing one kink just causes another one. Don't forget trying to get the fitting tight, no amount of force is going to stop the water from spraying out all around the hose at the spigot…it's just part of the charm.

What is the Right Hose For You?
Well that all depends on your needs, they are very different from watering a small flower bed, or if you have ½ acre of lawn to keep green. So instead lets talk about the materials, and you can decide what will fit your bill.

Material
Vinyl is cheap and it shows. It gets stiff in the cold, brittle in the sun, and develops a memory like a grudge: once it kinks, it kinks there forever. Reinforced vinyl with a mesh or cord layer holds up better. Rubber hoses… well they can weigh as much as a sack of wet cement but they last, sometimes for decades. Polyurethane is the newer middle ground, light enough to drag around without thinking, tough enough to handle the temperature swings we get out here.

Diameter
Most garden hoses are 5/8 inch inside. A 3/4 inch hose moves more water, which matters if you're filling stock tanks or running a sprinkler at the far end of a long line. For ordinary watering, 5/8 is plenty. The 1/2 inch hoses sold for $12 at the end-cap display are useful for filling a watering can and not much else.

Length
Longer is not better. Pressure drops the further water travels, and a 100-foot hose at the end of a marginal spigot will trickle when it should spray. Get the length you need and stop.

Fittings
The single best predictor of how long a hose will last. Brass couplings cost a couple of dollars more and outlive the hose. Plastic couplings strip, crack, and round off when you crank a wrench on them, which you will. If the package shows a brass-colored fitting, pick it up. If it feels suspiciously light, it's painted plastic, and you've been had.

Burst rating
The pressure the hose is rated to handle before it splits like a balloon. 350 psi is fine for normal use. 500 psi or higher is what you want for hot afternoons when the hose is sitting in the sun coiled up and pressurized, which is most of summer.

Warranty
A two-year warranty on a hose is the manufacturer admitting they expect it to fail. A lifetime warranty is the company having some faith in their product. Read the fine print, but a longer warranty generally means a better-made hose.
